Globally minded, globally mobile.

Students take a deep dive into Olin's Values Based, Data Driven™ approach to decision-making before hitting the road. The first trip takes you to the inner halls of the US government in Washington, DC. International locations for the fall and spring have included Barcelona, Spain; Paris, France; Santiago, Chile; Shanghai, China; and Singapore.

St. Louis Summer	Washington, DC Summer	Barcelona Fall	Singapore Spring
Foundations of Impactful Teamwork and Values Based, Data Driven™ Decision-Making are among the first classes you take in the program. Both are foundational to your MBA experience.	Brookings Institution experts prepare you to think globally before traveling abroad and give you an insider's view into the economic institutions and culture of the United States, Europe and South Asia.	Through strategic, hands-on projects centered on management and decision-making, you learn about the essential elements of a business model and how they interact to drive profitability.	You study how sustainability and technology come together to impact operations and management and how to achieve competitiveness through global operations and supply chains.
